The OHIO ALUMNUS

January 1947

From the Editor's Desk . . .

CREDIT Ohio University's recently announced plans for a series of lectures and discussion panels to acquaint Athens—both town and gown—and Southeastern Ohio with the organizational setup of the United Nations and with the steps being taken by UN to bring about world cooperation and peace are typical of the current spirit and thinking of the campus.

It is not that things of a comparable nature have never been done before, but that these plans admirably reflect the interest of President Baker in developing cultural interests and in providing opportunities for students to learn important facts from firsthand and authoritative sources.

These UN lectures should in at least some small measure increase the usefulness of the university to its friends and students and thereby be a means of advancing the day when the school will be known as "the best small university in the Middle West," a frequently expressed objective of the president.

At the risk of having his motives misinterpreted, the editor would like to point out, in some instances not for the first time, other activities and developments in which the guiding hand and spirit of Ohio University's vigorous and capable leader may be clearly detected.

Pleasing to all alumni truly interested in their alma mater are the following:

(1) Definite steps are being taken to encourage and improve scholarship on the campus. These measures not only include rewards for the earnest student, but penalties for the indifferent.

(2) To "widen the horizons" of students, outstanding figures in such fields as business, religion, education, law, government, science, and the fine arts are being brought to the campus with ever increasing frequency. These persons lecture formally, but, what is perhaps more important, also meet and talk informally with students in their homes and gathering places.

(3) A Faculty Lecture Series has been established, and faculty members are being encouraged to devote as much time as possible to research and other productive activities which will benefit both themselves and their students.

(4) The Ohio University Fund was suggested. The Fund, which bids fair to become one of the most helpful agencies in the life of the university and of incalculable value in revitalizing alumni interest, is now well launched and support of it is increasing daily.

(5) A genuine concern has been shown for the student-veteran and his problems. Efforts to properly house, feed, and educate the veterans have been of the "all-out" variety.

(6) An almost unbelievable amount of time and energy has been given to acquiring surplus war supplies and equipment for university classrooms and laboratories. Although, theoretically, available to universities through purchase or requisition, many items have been obtained only after numerous trips by the president or his associates to Washington, Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Cleveland, and other distribution centers.

(7) But these are things that can easily be, and in most cases have been, reported in The Alumnus and elsewhere. What is more difficult to define and describe is the new "spirit" that is coming to pervade the campus. There is an increasing regard for and emphasis on good human relationships. Also, one may show a sentimental interest in things ancient or traditional without an accompanying feeling of self-consciousness or embarrassment.

(8) And what's more, the door to the chief executive's office swings freely open these days, and a cordial greeting awaits the visitor inside.

Sole credit should not be given to one man, of course, for without the supporting efforts of colleagues, no presidential objective could be attained or even remotely approached. But from the man who promised leadership to Ohio University at the time of accepting its highest office, leadership has been forthcoming; and leadership is at least co-ordinate with followership.

This is intended as a factual report to Ohio University alumni and not as an effort to curry favor with persons in high places. Indeed, it is probable—the innate modesty of the president and his aversion to any semblance of self-promotion being what they are—that the writer has rendered his position as a member of the university staff less, rather than more, secure by his presentation of these facts.

Dr. Paulsen Gives Second Address in Faculty Series

By Ralph Stone Smith
Director of Publicity, Ohio University

AMBITION and resolve are not enough equipment to achieve a satisfactory academic record at Ohio University.

So said Dr. Gaige B. Paulsen, Ohio University psychology professor and supervisor of university training and counseling for the veterans' vocational guidance program in southeastern Ohio.

Addressing faculty members, students and townspersons November 21 in the second talk in the 1946-47 Faculty Lecture Series held in Edwin Watts Chubb Library, the psychol-Dr. Paulsen, who received an A.B. degree in 1927 and a Ph.D. degree in 1930 from the University of Minnesota, came to Ohio University in 1931 as an assistant professor of psychology. His present rank is that of full professor.

Of Norwegian descent, the affable and genial professor has conducted supervisory training programs for industry and served as consultant for job evaluation programs. By special invitation, he attended a one-week research forum planned by the Psychometric Society and sponsored by the International Business Machines Company of Endicott, N. Y.

He has presented papers at meetings of the American Psychological Association and the Midwestern Psychological Association.

In his picture Dr. Paulsen is seen standing in front of a Minnesota Spatial Relations Test. It is a test of mechanical aptitudes, and is one of a number of devices available for use in appraising mechanical ability.

Two lectures in the Faculty Series are scheduled for the second semester: "Some Phases of Modern Art," by Miss Edna M. Way, professor of space arts; and "Trends in American Education," by Dr. Robert L. Morton, '13, professor of education.

Dr. A. T. Volwiler, professor of history, is chairman of the Faculty Lecture Series Committee. Other members are Dr. Elizabeth G. Andersch, assistant professor of dramatic art and speech, and Dr. K. H. Krauskopf, professor of advertising.

ogist said "students must have general ability and come properly prepared for such an academic program." His subject was "The Prediction of Educational and Vocational Adjustment."

Students with a low level college ability score and a poor academic record already established would have difficulty with subjects such as chemistry, physics, biology, English, and German, he pointed out.

What opportunity would such a student have in gaining admission to a medical school, even if he could meet all the college requirements of the pre-medical work? Such a client must be advised of the hazards in his future training, he declared.

Results of the college ability tests for this year's freshman class at Ohio University, the speaker said, tend to indicate that about half of the men are not likely to finish a course having high language, technical, or major demands.

"If they are able to meet the University College demands, then their best chance of completing a training program at the college level would seem to be to register for work in the College of Commerce or in the College of Education. That this is actually the case can be demonstrated by our statistics," Dr. Paulsen said.

Since Ohio University is one of six VA Guidance Centers in southern Ohio, Dr. Paulsen serves as an appraiser and counselor in outlining vocational programs for ex-service-men enrolled at the university and for veterans living in eight surrounding counties, including Athens, Meigs, Gallia, Jackson, Vinton, Hocking, Morgan, Washington, and Perry. He is assisted by James H. L. Roach, '37, A.M. '41, and Arthur W. Sherman, '40, acting psychology instructors. So far, the veterans administration has concurred in each case with the findings of Dr. Paulsen and his aides.

The speaker said counseling had two basic sources of information: (1) a knowledge of the occupational and educational programs and their requirements in terms of human aptitudes, abilities, and interest; and (2) the total information which can be developed about the individual—personal, historical, and situational.

Occupational objectives which have been established are quite varied, including both unskilled and professional ones.

"In fact, to be more specific, they vary from laborer to physician. For example, veterans have chosen to study to be bartenders [not at Ohio University — Editor], game technicians, floral designers, copper wheel engravers, bookbinders, blasters, armature winders, and silk screen printers," the speaker declared.

Dr. Paulsen explained the steps required to set up a vocational objective as follows:

An adviser explains to the client his rights under Public Laws 16 and 346. The appraisers interview the veteran preliminarily to selecting a set of tests which might yield useful information with respect to the occupations and jobs in which the veteran has indicated an expressed interest.

This interview reveals data about the veteran's family, his educational history, including training in the service, any vocational or other special training, present interests, hobbies, avocations, juvenile work history, as well as a detailed work history prior to and since separation from the service.

During the talk the counselor makes observations of the client's attitude, facility of expression, ambitions, and emotional stability, and writes a summary of these observations.

This exploratory interview serves to indicate what tests and other information (Continued on page 8)

Shaffer Appointed Highway Director in State Cabinet

The appointment of Murray D. Shaffer to a position in his cabinet as state highway director has been announced by Governor-elect Thomas J. Herbert. The new director will take office with the governor on January 13.

Mr. Shaffer, who received a diploma in civil engineering from Ohio University in 1923, lives in Columbus, but maintains his legal residence in Mansfield.

Highway Director Murray D. Shaffer

After several years as a consulting engineer, specializing in municipal and sanitary engineering, he served as safety and service director of the city of Mansfield. Later, he was a field engineer for the Portland Cement Association. In 1939, he was appointed division engineer of Division No. 3 of the State Highway Department. In 1940, he was made chief engineer in the department's bureau of location and design.

In the last named position Mr. Shaffer helped plan the state's post-war highway program to which the federal government is contributing $20,000,000 a year.

He resigned the highway post in October, 1945, to accept a position as engineer-director of Macadam Pavements, Inc., a technical and research organization.

The governor-elect has announced that he will recommend a salary of $10,000 a year for the highway directorship. The present salary is $6,500.

Mr. Shaffer is chairman of the committee that is planning the annual convention of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers to be held in Columbus March 20-22.

At a convention luncheon to be held at the Deshler-Wallick Hotel March 20 special tables will be assigned to the graduates and former students of various universities. It is suggested that Ohio University men contact David M. Cooper, '10, 148 East Kelso Road, Columbus, for reservations at the Ohio University table. Mr. Cooper is a location and design engineer in the State Highway Department. The number of his residence telephone is LAwndale 3122.

Lecture Series Planned in Interest of World Cooperation

Plans are under way at Ohio University for acquainting Athens and southeastern Ohio with the steps being taken by the United Nations for world peace.

Stressing the importance of world cooperation and international peace, the university will sponsor a series of lectures and discussion panels to outline UN methods. The project will be headed by Dr. Wilfred J. Smith, associate professor of history, who has attended recent sessions of the United Nations in New York.

Twenty-five representatives of civic, business, professional, and labor groups in the local area will be invited to sit with the university-wide steering committee in making plans.

Emphasizing that the university has "no ax to grind," and that the sole purpose is "to inform," President Baker has announced that a nationally-known speaker would visit the campus within the next few weeks to start the lecture series. Later, prominent international figures closely associated with the United Nations will be brought to the campus to explain the various units of the UN, including the general assembly, security council, economic and social council, trusteeship council, international court of justice, and the secretariat.

Plans are also under way to offer a new course at Ohio University in which the United Nations and its aims and accomplishments will be outlined.

Dean W. M. Young Among Faculty Members To Resign

Several resignations from the Ohio University faculty were submitted to President Baker at the beginning of the current school year, in most instances by persons who had been on leaves of absence for war work in military or civilian capacities.

Among those resigning were Dr. William M Young, dean of the College of Applied Science; Thomas M.

Former Dean William M. Young

Larrick, assistant professor of architectural design and university architect; and the following instructors—Dr. Norman R. Buchan (journalism), Charles R. Henderson (agriculture), Richard S. Hudson (business law), Dr. Donald W. Paden (economics), Roger C. Quisenberry, '42 (electrical engineering), and Juanita Kahler (home economics).

Dean Young was granted a leave of absence for war service with the Army Signal Corps in November, 1942. A lieutenant colonel, he has recently reported that his services will be required by the Army for an indefinite period. He has been overseas since early in 1944 and has won, among other decorations, the Order of the Crown of Italy. He is now on furlough, and when he returns to the Mediterranean Theater of Operations he will be accompanied by Mrs. Young and two of their three daughters. A third daughter is attending Iowa State University.

Conservation Lab To Become Reality

OHIO UNIVERSITY'S proposed conservation laboratory — comprising 3000 to 5000 acres of land and a 180-acre lake near Athens — at long last appears sure of becoming a reality.

Irving I. Dickman, district forester, recently checked that the first checks for the purchase of land had been received by the Division of Forestry out of the $100,000 appropriated by the State Legislature.

He cautioned, however, that the original allocation of money would not be nearly enough to pay for the full 5000 acres, and he hoped additional funds would be made available.

Construction of a dam at the site of the lake three miles east of Athens at Strouds Run is expected to be started next spring with completion slated within at least a year, the forester declared.

Dr. C. L. Dow, professor of geology and geography, said the university planned to use the forest and lake facilities to prepare conservation technicians and teachers of conservation subjects. Explaining that there was a shortage of trained conservation personnel, Dr. Dow pointed to the growing need for this type of work over the nation, particularly in southeastern Ohio.

While the educational aspect of the project takes first priority, the lake is scheduled to be opened to the public as a recreational site.

Until all of the land has been acquired, Mr. Dickman said the university could not build, maintain, and operate such structures as may be necessary in the training courses. Although no formal contract has been entered into by Ohio University and the Division of Forestry, Mr. Dickman said an "informal gentlemen's agreement" tentatively had been agreed upon.

Emerson Houf, '40, a state forester and former Marine Corps officer, has appraised the land in the area and is now engaged in securing options on it.

Another appropriation of $100,000 was made by the Legislature for creation of the impounded lake, including the cost of clearing of the site, and construction of the embankment, spillway, docks, piers and beaches.

This work can be done by private contract or by the State Forestry Department, Mr. Dickman explained. If the state handles it, extra heavy mechanical equipment would have to be acquired, he said.

The area for the forest contains a stream of proven clear water. Most of the land is not what could be termed productive. Some of it, in fact, was described as waste land in the sense that it does not produce an average yield of crops, much of it being too hilly.

Conservation experts who examined the site were enthusiastic as to its location and value to the people of Ohio and the Middle West generally.

State Senator Stanley E. Mechem, father of William A. Mechem, '42, Athens, and Mrs. George A. Brach (Alice Mechem, '42), Santa Rosa, Calif., introduced the bill in the Legislature providing for the forest and lake. The acquisition, development, and administration of the lands was assumed by the Division of Forestry. Management of the fish and wildlife resources will be supervised by the Division of Conservation of Natural Resources.

Deploring the depletion of the natural resources in southeastern Ohio, Dr. Dow suggested that the university might help by:

1. By developing increased conservation appreciation and establishing a professional educational program within the university itself.
2. By cooperating in all conservation programs set up.

Since the chief function of any conservation program is proper education, he said that in this respect Ohio University can make a real contribution in its use of the lake and forest facilities.

ON DECEMBER 10 the Ohio University chapter of Phi Beta Kappa initiated ten new members who had been elected in November. Both the initiation and the dinner that followed were at the Hotel Barry.

President John C. Baker, who delivered the address of the evening, stressed the duties of the educated in a time of crisis, particularly the duties of members of college honor societies.

For the sake of perspective President Baker asked his listeners to imagine how a social historian one hundred years hence might evaluate the influence of college honor societies in our day. Such a commentator, President Baker warned, might be astonished at the indifference of these societies and their members to their extraordinary opportunities and responsibilities in an age of great change. In retrospect, he continued, it might appear that honor societies were only one of the paradoxes of the age: encouraging mere specialization in an age that needed great leadership, remaining exclusive despite the need for understanding among groups, stressing the importance of education but doing nothing to advance it, preferring democracy but not meeting the obligations of citizens, and praising wisdom— (Continued on page 8)

On and About the Campus . . .

ON DECEMBER 4 the Modern Dance Club presented in a Memorial Auditorium concert Miss Gertrude Lippincott, of Minneapolis, Minn., a teacher and demonstrator of modern dance numbers . . . John Prescott, of New York City, vice president and general counsel for General Foods, addressed a convocation of College of Commerce students on December 5, speaking on "The Functions of the Law Department of a Corporation." Mr. Prescott also spoke before the classes in Business Law taught by Prof. Gerald O. Dykstra.

HERBERT KLIER, Ingham, Pa., a write-in candidate, scored a huge plurality over all other nominees to be elected president of the Student Council last month in the first all-campus election in six years. Rocco Russo, Cleveland, was named vice president under terms of the Student Council constitution which provide that that office shall go to the candidate receiving the second highest number of votes for president. Dean Irma E. Voigt, chairman of the Campus Affairs Committee, reported that the election, held in the Student Center Building, was "very honest and well-conducted," adding that, "we were encouraged by the turnout of nearly one-third of the student body." Malcolm Baas, Deer Park, Cincinnati, president of the Men's Union Planning Board, and Joyce White, Parkersburg, W. Va., president of the Women's League, are now serving as co-chairmen of the Student Council by virtue of their positions and will continue to do so until the second semester when President-elect Klier will take over.

THE WOMEN'S DEBATE team of Ohio University tied for first place in the Women's Intercollegiate Debate Tournament held December 6 and 7 at Capital University in Columbus. The team tied with Denison, Ohio Wesleyan, and Allegheny College of Pennsylvania, with the team of each school winning eight debates and losing four. The men's debating season will open on January 11 with a practice tournament at Marietta College and close March 1 with the state tournament to be held at Columbus.

OHIO UNIVERSITY co-eds remember those who served in World Wars I and II by making monthly trips to the Veterans Administration Hospital at Chillicothe to attend dances for the veterans. This recreational service is sponsored by the Ohio University chapter of the American Red Cross. Shown boarding the bus for one of the trips to Chillicothe are: (left to right) Beth Dailey, Athens; Bonnie Lee Yeager, Cincinnati; Mary Mangan, Cleveland; Dorothy Raine, Huntington, W. Va.; Lois Cooper, Portsmouth; Ruth Nelson, Ashland; and Marilyn Kueth, Akron. The driver of the bus is C. J. "Dutch" Ailstock. Twice during the past football season veterans from the Chillicothe hospital were guests of the Athletic Department at football games in Ohio Stadium. On December 14 the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity glee club of 35 men, under the sponsorship of the campus Red Cross unit, presented a program in Chillicothe for the entertainment of veterans. David C. Bowyer, Girard, is director of the club. For an additional reference to the entertainment activities of the co-eds see story on page 8.

Ohio U. Co-eds About To Board Bus for Hospital Visitation

CAPTAIN CORNELL C. Houston has been added to the R.O. T.C. staff at Ohio University as instructor in air tactics. Captain Houston had 19 months of combat service overseas with a troop carrier group . . . Ralph N. Smeek, instructor in flying at the Ohio University Flight School, reports that "the most serious injury we have known since the local program was started two years ago is a slight bump on the head." Continuing, he said, "we have the largest flight training school in Ohio, and one of the largest in the country. There are 205 students enrolled, 26 flight instructors, 14 maintenance men, five in the administration department, and we have 27 airplanes." Courses offered include the primary for private pilot's license, secondary, cross-country, including advanced navigation, advanced rating as instructor, instrument course, and multi-engine course. Plans for the future include a course in aerial photography and an airline transport rating course which at the present time is offered by only four other schools in the country.

DR. DUDLEY HUPPLER, a young Wisconsin artist, came to the campus December 8 to open a series of three art exhibits to be held during 1946-47 under the auspices of the College of Fine Arts. The Huppler exhibit remained in the gallery of the Edwin Watts Chubb Library during the following week. Paintings by Gertrude Abercrombie and Felix Ruvolo will be exhibited Feb. 15-28, and works of Margaret Stark and Julio de Diego will appear May 1-15. These artists will also be present at the opening of their exhibitions. "The main purpose in presenting the exhibits on the campus," according to Dean Seigfred, "is to show students and the general public some of the main currents in contemporary art, to acquaint them with tendencies almost at their beginnings, and at the same time give an opportunity to discuss the reasons for these tendencies with the artists themselves."

THE CAMPUS RELIGIOUS COUNCIL has announced that a World Student Service Fund drive will be held next semester. Ohio University students contributed more than $1000 to the national fund last year which goes for the relief and rehabilitation of students in other lands. The fund was established shortly after the first World War.

THE NAMES OF 26 Ohio University students will appear in the 1947 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." Four of the number are being honored for the second time, while the entire group includes 22 seniors, three juniors, and one special student. Selections for the "Who's Who" volume are based on "character, scholarship, leadership in extracurricular activities, and potentiality for future success in business and society." At Ohio University nominations for the honor undergo a careful scrutiny by university authorities and student representatives.

OHIO UNIVERSITY'S record enrollment of 5789 students is 61 per cent higher than the previous peak and 11 per cent above the average across the country. An enrollment of approximately 3500 veterans has been predicted at Ohio University for the second semester, an increase of 150 over the current figure. Over the nation more than 2,000,000 students are attending 1749 universities and colleges. Approximately one-half of these students are veterans. The national total represents a 50 per cent increase over the pre-war peak of 1939-1940.

HIGHLIGHT of the Dramatics Clinic sponsored by the College of Fine Arts late in November for the benefit of Ohio and West Virginia high school students and teachers was the appearance of Miss Winifred Lenihan (see picture), of New York City, widely-known professional actress who created the title role in the first performance of George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan." Miss Lenihan is a former director of New York's Theater Guild School of Acting and has appeared in many Broadway hits. Now retired from the stage, she frequently appears on radio programs and writes for the radio. At the local clinic she gave a demonstration of "acting techniques" and participated in one of the panel discussions. She came to the university at the invitation of President Baker "in continuation," as the chief executive said, "of the university's policy of securing the services of persons distinguished in the field of arts to add to the intellectual life of the student." Appearing in the picture, left to right, are Dean Earl C. Seigfred, of the College of Fine Arts, Dr. Robert W. Masters, director of dramatics at Indiana State Teachers College, Terre Haute, and Miss Lenihan. Dr. Masters was one of the clinic speakers as was Dr. Frank Fowler, head of the Division of Dramatics at the University of Kentucky. Besides Dean Seigfred, members of the Ohio University faculty participating in clinic programs were Dr. Elizabeth Andersch, Vincent Jukes, '30, Christopher Lane, Dr. L. C. Staats, '26, M. W. Tillson, and Gertrude Reinbold.

Dean Seigfred, Dr. Masters, and Miss Lenihan

NUMBERS FROM HANDEL'S "Messiah" sung by a chorus of 108 voices directed by Prof. C. C. Robinson and with solos sung by Philip L. Peterson and Mrs. Helen Hedden Roach, of the School of Music faculty, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bird, music students, featured the Christmas Convocation.

AN ALL-TIME RECORD total of 75 teams has been entered in the intramural basketball tournament this winter. The deluge of entries was so great that Jack Rhoads, '29, director of intramural sports, spent seven hours in making out the schedule. The teams have been divided into six leagues. The Fraternity Active League will be back in full strength 11 teams -- for the first time since 1942 since Pi Kappa Alpha and Tau Kappa Epsilon will both be represented again. The "Tekes" have recently been reactivated, and, under the presidency of John Talbott, Belmont, have acquired a chapter house on Morris Avenue. The PiKA's are not yet back in quarters of their own. The president of the latter group is Kenton Ray, Zanesville.

MISS DONNA BARTON, Lakewood, has been elected president of the Women's Recreation Association (formerly Women's Athletic Association) for 1947. Fellow officers are Annette Trump, Rocky River, vice president; Marcella Lonergan, Cleveland, secretary; Ethel Krupansky, Cleveland, treasurer; and Mary Jane McKinley, Lucasville, social chairman.

DR. WARREN TAYLOR, professor of English at Oberlin College, on December 12 addressed the Ohio University chapter of the American Association of University Professors on "Faculty Salaries and Salary Scales." Stating that "salaries of college teachers are lower than for most professions," the Oberlin man cited statistics to show that the average salary of a full professor is lower than the average for such professional men as doctors and lawyers and that the median for all university and college teachers is only $2,727. In referring to the high cost of living Dr. Taylor declared that a faculty member with a salary of $3,000 in 1939 now needs $4,310 to equal it in purchasing power since his $3,000 salary will buy only $2,080 worth of goods at the present time.

Vets Entertained by Students With Programs at Hospital

During the war college women were eager to serve as canteen hostesses and to entertain servicemen. Today Ohio University co-eds are just as enthusiastic to "remember those who served."

To be specific, girls from the campus attend dances at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Chillicothe once a month. Other students make a monthly trip to present programs in the wards.

Sponsored by the university Red Cross College unit of which Marilyn Weaver of Canton is president, the monthly visits are made to keep up the morale of the psychiatric patients. Two-thirds of the 2300 patients are World War I veterans, says Miss Evelyn Miller, ARC field director at the hospital. However, she adds, the number of patients from World War II is constantly increasing.

The visits of the co-eds are "really looked forward to" by the men. Miss Miller declares, explaining that the dances are the most enjoyed events of the entire recreational program. Surprisingly enough, the older men have lost none of their zest for dancing and often are less shy than the younger veterans about asking the girls to dance.

Another project sponsored by the Ohio University Red Cross this year was a Christmas "Gift Shop" for the patients. With funds collected on the campus, the student Red Cross members bought over 300 gifts from which the patients made selections to wrap themselves and send home to their families. Interfraternity Council contributed $113 for the gifts, while Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Xi Delta, Phi Mu, and Phi Sigma Sigma sororities made 100 percent contributions.

In addition to brightening the hospital wards with monthly entertainments of songs, readings, skits, and instrumental music, Ohio University has helped to make the wards more cheerful by donating over 80 pictures from the School of Painting and Allied Arts.

For each monthly dance girls are selected from every dormitory and sorority to make up the group of 25 which travels 50 miles to Chillicothe in an Ohio University bus. Upon arrival at the hospital the hostesses are welcomed by the ARC field director, as well as by cheerful greetings from the patients gathered in the dance hall.

Following a brief explanation of the dance set up by the field director, the girls have their dance programs filled out by the men. The hostesses are asked to sign no more than one dance for the same man, in order to give as many as possible of the 300 to 400 patients present a chance to dance. Music is provided by the hospital orchestra, whose members derive genuine enjoyment from playing for the dancing.

Just as the men were always ready to look out for their buddies in the service, today in the hospital one will say to a hostess, "If you don't have the next dance, I'd like to ask you a favor. I have a pal over here who's a little bashful about asking anyone to dance. Hey, Jimmy, come on over." Smilingly, the girl agrees to dance with the bashful Jimmy and enjoys a sense of elation when she sees him dancing later on to know that she has helped give him confidence in himself and his dancing.

An added note at the dances are bouquets of flowers grown in the hospital greenhouses as well as carnations and chrysanthemums which a patient proudly passes out to each of the girls present.

When it is time for the busload of Ohio University girls to pull out from the hospital after an evening dance, it is with reluctance that the patients wave goodbye, yet with pleasure that they anticipate the arrival of the next month's group. And it is with a very real sense of well-being that the co-eds look back upon the experience, knowing what help they have been to the patients.

Father Killed in Collision

While on his way from Dayton to Athens, December 20, to pick up his daughter, Carolyn, an Ohio University freshman, at the beginning of the Christmas holiday recess, Wiley A. Cummins was fatally injured when his automobile collided with a Dayton & Southeastern Lines bus in Chillicothe.

Mr. Cummins, a sales engineer with the Dayton Malleable Iron Co., was the husband of the former Louise Rannels, '24.

might be useful in making tentative training plans for the individual. A check list of the tests is presented to the psychometrist or test administrator, and the veteran completes his record of tests. This data is then turned over to the counselor who makes a preliminary appraisal of it with a view to selecting several objectives in which the veteran might be interested, qualified, trainable, and employable.

The counselor then presents a number of possibilities to the client along with an adequate fund of occupational information, and the veteran comes to a decision as to the occupational objective and the type of training which would be suitable to meet the entry requirements.

Before the veteran is committed to a specific occupational objective, however, a conference is held with a VA vocational adviser to develop the final plans for the program. Then he signs a certificate to the effect that he has fixed upon an objective, and that he agrees to this specified course of training. It must be suitable to the veteran, the adviser, a medical consultant and the VA chief of education and training. Thus, an objective is chosen.

In conclusion the president challenged the members of Phi Beta Kappa to be worthy of the early traditions of their society and to play the role expected of men and women of exceptional intellectual attainments.

Those initiated were Eleanor Maxwell, West Union, W. Va.; Geraldine Davies, Athens; Stephanie Walsh, Falls Church, Va.; Marjorie Wisse, Hasbrouck Heights, N. The Bobcat Sports Review

By Ralph Stone Smith

HIGHLIGHTED by a 105-25 trouncing of Marietta College, Ohio University cagers entered the New Year with three wins and two losses.

The Bobcats, in scoring 335 points for an average of 67 per game, held opponents to 212 markers.

Wins were registered over Wayne University 66-39, in the season's opener Dec. 7, 105-25 over Marietta on Dec. 10, and 64-29 over the University of Dayton Dec. 17.

Coach W. J. "Dutch" Trautwein's basketballers lost to Western Reserve University 50-46 on Dec. 14 and to the University of Akron by 69-54 on Dec. 21.

As far as the Mid-American Conference was concerned, the Bobcats were playing .500 ball with the victory over Wayne and the loss to Western Reserve. Ohio U., the University of Cincinnati, and Western Reserve were locked in a three-way tie for second place. Butler University of Indianapolis topped the loop with one win and no defeats while Wayne was in the cellar without a triumph.

The Green and White cagers were to return to the campus Dec. 30 to grid for their game on Jan. 4 at Lexington, Ky., with the University of Kentucky, the No. 1 team in the nation. For the rest of the student body, there was a longer Christmas holiday as classes weren't to begin until Jan. 6.

Carrying the brunt of the Bobcat attack has been forward Kenny Walters of New Lexington, high point man last season with 258 counters. In five games this year he racked up 83 points for high scoring honors.

Teaming with him are Gene Gyurko of Toledo, who started the first three tilts, and Dick Shrider of Glenford, who opened at forward the latter two. Both men are newcomers to the squad.

Bob Dickey, lanky letterman from Lancaster, has ably held down the pivot spot. He holds second high scoring honors thus far this season with 50 points.

Harry Gordon of Cleveland and Russ Gregg of Ashville or Bob Brandle of Chillicothe are holding down the guard positions. All three are lettermen.

Dickey, in five games, had the best record when it came to making good on free throws, tossing in 10 out of 13 tries. Gyurko made eight of 12 attempts and Walters sank 17 of 25 tosses.

Ohio had little trouble in defeating Wayne in the conference curtain raiser, leading 44-19 at the half in a rough game in which 49 fouls were called, 27 of them on the Detroiters. High scorer was Walters, a southpaw, with 17 points. Dickey made 13 for second honors.

The Bobcats swamped Marietta's Pioneers 105-25 in the most one-sided victory in Green and White hard-court history and marked up a new court record in the Men's Gym. Previous high score made on the home court was the 77 points scored on Toledo University in the 1938-39 season.

Leading 53-7 at the half, the Bobcats' second and third stringers played the last stanza and continued the rout. Ohio U. controlled the ball at least three-fourths of the time and dominated play under the backboard throughout.

High point man was Bill Hasselbach of Middletown, second string forward, who accounted for 16 markers. Walters and Bob Johnson of Athens, second string center, tied for second high with 13 each.

COACH TRAUTWEIN AND SOME OF THE 1947 VARSITY BASKETBALL SQUAD
Kneeling—Coach W. J. Trautwein, Russ Gregg; standing—Kenny Walters, Bob Dickey, Dick Shrider, and Harry Godon.

Western Reserve eked out a 50-46 win after a slow first half in which it led 19-14. The Bobcats came back in the last half to tie it up 30-30, but the Clevelanders then forged ahead to run up a 48-37 margin with four minutes to go.

The Red Cats' victory was largely attributed to control of the backboard with Center Hank Lefkowitz doing yeoman duty. High point man was Forward Fred Becker of Western Reserve with 18 counters. Walters was second high with 15.

Ohio coasted to a 64-29 win over the Dayton Flyers after leading 36-12 at halftime. The play of Gordon was outstanding. He nabbed rebounds time after time and intercepted passes for his best performance of the season to date.

Walters again was high scorer with 24 points, including six free throws made good in nine attempts. Shrider, an All-Ohio high school selection two years in a row, lived up to his press notices by making 11 points for second high honors. The Bobcats converted 16 free tosses out of 22 tries.

The Akron quintet, always one of the best in the state, handed the Bobcats their second defeat 69-54 after Ohio had taken an early lead of 20-13 with 10 minutes elapsed. The Zippers then opened up to lead 34-28 at the half and were never stopped.

Forward T. Nagy of Akron set the pace with 22 points, closely followed by a teammate, Guard Bill Serves, with 19. Walters and Dickey tied for third high with 14 points each.

WITH SEVEN MEETS definitely scheduled, Ohio University's swimming team opens its season Jan. 11 against the Falcons at Bowling Green State University.

Under the guidance of Coach Frank Szalay, 27 candidates for the tank team, including a couple of lettermen, have been working out for more than a month. The monogram winners, around which a winning team is expected to be formed, are brothers Phil and Des Cook, Cleveland seniors.

Both Cook swimmers are Bobcat 1941 record-holders, Phil setting a new mark for the 220 and 440-yard free style while Des was a member of the medley relay team that hung up a new mark.

Free stylists on the squad include John Pettibone, Erie, Pa.; Robert Peterson, Cleveland Heights; Robert Mellvaine, Panama Canal Zone; Harry Wilks, Hamilton; Louis Briegel, Massillon; Jack Hannan, Mansfield; Charles Duncan, Athens.

Tackle John E. Kerns

John "Rosy" Kerns, Geneva, a 230-pound tackle who rounded out his third year of varsity football for Ohio University this fall, received and accepted an invitation from Coach Bernie Bierman to play for the Eastern Stars in the annual Shrine Bowl charity game against the Western Stars on New Year's Day in San Francisco. Slated for a starting berth on the team coached by the famed Minnesota grid mentor, friends of the Ohio player were disappointed when he saw only four minutes of action in the East-West game which West won 13-9.

New Lexington; Craig Bauder, Philadelphia, Pa.; Richard Dollson, Logan; and Norman York, Lakewood.

Breast stroke — William Nixon, Cleveland Heights; Howie Topper, New York City; and Des Cook, Cleveland.

Back stroke — Arthur Langmead, Cleveland.

Diving — Jack Comey, Rocky River; Ford Baker, Mt. Clemens, Mich.; Ronald Barth, Cleveland Heights; Garth Diltz, Kent; Arthur Kern, Mansfield; and Bob Schmidt, East Liverpool.

The schedule: Jan. 11—at Bowling

Green; Jan. 17—at Kent State; Jan. 24—Wittenberg; Feb. 8—at Cincinnati; Feb. 15—at Wittenberg; Feb. 21—at Western Reserve; and Mar. 8—Ohio Wesleyan.

OHIO UNIVERSITY'S wrestling team opened its seven-match card Dec. 14 by dropping a close one to Waynesburg (Pa.). College there by 15-13.

The sport of wrestling, a wartime casualty on the campus, was resumed this fall with Thor Olson again serving as coach, now in his 30th year as a member of the athletic staff. He is aided by Kermit Blosser, assistant coach, who was the 1932 national college grappling champion in the 191-pound class while at Ohio U.

The three lettermen on the squad—Bill Hess of Columbus, Ed Zednik of Cleveland, and John Kulazenska of Bellaire—each scored victories against Waynesburg but the Yellow Jackets took all five of the other matches. Zednik and Hess downed their opponents while Kulazenska won a decision.

The summary:

121 lbs.—R. Murdock (W) decided Jack Browning (OU), Portsmouth; 128 lbs.—G. Lewis (W) decided Dick Stack (OU), Cleveland; 136 lbs.—G. Fuller (W) decided Jim Spencer (OU), Cleveland; 145 lbs.—John Kulazenska (OU), Bellaire, decided H. Lackey (W); 155 lbs.—L. Joseph (W) decided Pete Puhar (OU), Elyria; 165 lbs.—D. Thomas (W) decided Wally Schults (OU), Cleveland; 175 lbs.—Ed Zednik (OU), Cleveland, pinned J. Baughman (W) in 2:26.

In the heavyweight class—Bill Hess (OU), Columbus, downed J. Sutton (W) in 4:43.

The Bobcats' next match is a return go with Waynesburg in the Men's Gym Jan. 8. Remainder of the schedule: Jan. 17—Akron; Jan. 18—at Ohio State; Feb. 1—at Kent State; Feb. 15—at Akron; and Feb. 21—at Case.

THE BOBCAT cross country team was victorious in one out of three dual meets and placed third in the Mid-American Conference contest this fall.

The victory was scored at the expense of Cincinnati, while the defeats were suffered at the hands of Ohio Wesleyan and Wayne.

In the conference meet Wayne, Butler, Ohio, and Cincinnati placed in the order given.

Here and There Among the Alumni

DANIEL READ (see picture) was born at Marietta in 1805 just the year following the establishment of Ohio University. He came to the campus of the pioneer school as a preparatory student in 1819 and was graduated with the A.B. degree in 1824. He received the A.M. degree in 1827, and, in 1854, Asbury College conferred upon him the honorary LL.D. degree. He was preceptor of the Preparatory Department of his alma mater, 1825-36, professor of ancient languages, 1836-38, and professor of Latin and political economy and vice president of the university 1838-43. For the next ten years he was a professor of languages at the University of Indiana and was acting president of the university for a portion of this period. He next taught mental and moral philosophy at the University of Wisconsin, and, from 1863 to 1876, was president of the University of Missouri. At the time of his death in 1878 he was the oldest college teacher in point of continuous service in the United States. . . . A brother, Nathaniel Read, graduated from Ohio University in 1829. He was a trustee of the university for five years, served two terms as prosecuting attorney of Hamilton County, sat on the Common Pleas bench of that county for two terms, and was a member of the Supreme Court of Ohio for seven years. Upon the death of Daniel Webster he was selected to deliver the eulogy at a meeting of the citizens of Cincinnati. Judge Read died in California in 1853 at the early age of 45.

Proud, and rightfully so, is THOMAS A. COTTON, SR., 2-yr., former Athens grocer and restaurant owner, but for many years now a merchant in Canisteo, N. Y., of the war service record of his five sons and one daughter. All of the sons appear in the picture on page 13 but the daughter, unfortunately, was still in service as an Army nurse in Florida at the time the picture was taken last September. Meanwhile, the daughter, Jean, has received her discharge and is now married. Left to right in the picture are William, Thomas, Jr., Thomas, Sr., Robert, John, and James. BILL and JOHN are currently enrolled at Ohio University. The former was a first lieutenant in the AAF and saw service in the Pacific. The latter was a first class seaman in the Naval Air Corps and was stationed in Texas. TOM, JR., '36x, served in the Persian Gulf Command as a lieutenant colonel in the Army Medical Corps and is now practicing medicine in Canisteo. BOB, a former staff sergeant in Alaska, is attending Alfred University, Alfred, N. Y. JIM, a first lieutenant in the Signal Corps, is still in the Army, being stationed at Fort Dix, N. J. He was in the Pacific

On November 24 members of The Tourist Church (interdenominational) of Daytona Beach, Fla., paid tribute to the REV. DR. DON D. TULLIS in recognition of the tenth anniversary of his ministry in the church (see picture on next page). Dr. Tullis was presented with a specially prepared scroll upon which was expressed the "deep appreciation and loving gratitude" of the various church units—board of trustees, board of deacons, etc.—for the leadership that had resulted in both a spiritual and physical growth of the church organization. It was pointed out, among other things, that "conspicuous spiritual progress has been made, church attendance has been multiplied many times . . . one of the best choirs in the South has been formed, and the church maintains a worker in China." Among the physical improvements mentioned were an addition to the north wing of the auditorium; construction of the church house, cloister, and the patio; the building of Tullis Lodge; and the institution of the radio broadcast of the Sunday service. A member of the Service League of the church composed the following:

TRIBUTE TO DR. TULLIS

You are, to us, all solid things: an oak
That sends its roots deep in the earth to choke
Out treacheries, the faith of toil
That gleams its honest bread from stubborn soil.
Huge walls of granite rock, a river
surging
Out to the sea of life, yet never veering
From banks of truth; endless fields of grain
That seem to whisper: God, and sun and rain.

But you are lighter things: a lightning flash
Of laughter; a little child at play;
a splash
Of sunbeams on the dew; the gentle art
Of humor that puts dimples in the heart.
We pay you tribute; we are better far
Because of this: that you are what you are.

MRS. MARGARET ULLOM STALDER, ex, had a painful mishap on December 21 when she fell in front of her home in Athens, fracturing two bones in an ankle. She was able to leave the local hospital in time to enjoy a Christmas dinner with her daughter, MARY STALDER, '29, A.M. '32, and her sisters, Mrs. David H. Thomas (MARY ULLOM, '96), Marietta, Mrs. Robert F. Bishop (JANE ULLOM, '06), Mrs. Don C. Coultrap (CHARLOTTE ULLOM, '09x), and Mrs. Frank Chester (HELEN ULLOM, '04x), all of Columbus. Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. Coultrap were accompanied by their husbands, both graduates of Ohio University, the former in 1903 and the latter in 1908. Mrs. Stalder is the widow of HARRY G. STALDER, '93, who died in 1911, and is a sister of DR. JOSEPH T. ULLOM, '98, a prominent physician of Germantown, Pa., and a former national president of the Ohio University Alumni Association.

DR. O. C. STINE, assistant chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in the Department of Agriculture in Washington, is one of seven men recently appointed by the U. S. Civil Service Commission to membership on an Advisory Committee on Personnel in the Social Sciences. Besides the Department of Agriculture man there is a representative of the Treasury Department and an outstanding educator from each one of the following universities — Minnesota, Cornell, Wisconsin, American (Washington, D. C.), Vanderbilt, and Columbia.

BLANCHE KECK, 2-yr., is possessor of one of the longest and most consistently regular membership records in the Ohio University Alumni Association. Miss Keck is a veteran teacher in the Akron schools, having taught in the Rubber City for more than 25 years, most of the time in the Margaret Park School. Before going to Akron she had taught at Montpelier, Lucasville, and Middletown. For two years, 1910-1912, she was a student at Otterbein College in her home town of Westerville, and, while Alumni Office records do not show it, it is probable that she holds a baccalaureate degree from Otterbein.

GEORGE E. CARR, 2-yr. (not to be confused with GEORGE E. CARR, '20, Logan school superintendent) is owner and manager of the Palms Tourist Court at Winter Park, Fla., and had as his recent guests for several weeks DR. STANLEY DOUGAN, '14, and Mrs. Dougan (NELLIE STOKES, '16X), of San Jose, Calif., who are now on a year's tour of the United States in their Spartan aluminum house trailer. Mr. Carr and Dr. Dougan were onetime roommates at Ohio University, having occupied the room in East Wing (Wilson Hall) now housing a portion of the Alumni Office. Mr. Carr, whose wife is the former MERLE TEWKSBURY, '10, 2-yr., is a former highway engineer in Ohio and during the war years was a civilian engineer at air bases in Florida. A son, DON R. CARR, '43, is now enrolled at Ohio State University after a period of war service. The father received an engineering degree from O.S.U. just prior to his marriage to Miss Tewksbury.

1911

Word has come to the Alumni Office of the death in Columbus of Ralph S. Clevenger, vice president of Parkerhurst Interior Decorators and husband of the former MARGARET LAX, 2-yr. Mrs. Clevenger was a bookkeeper in the Ohio University Treasurer's Office from 1920 to 1927 and was a secretary to Dean of Women Irma E. Voigt from the latter year until 1936. In 1927 she married J. F. Druckemiller who died early in 1939. She married Mr. Clevenger two and one-half years later.

PERRY W. FATTIG, B.S. '12, B.S.Ed. '14, and M.S. '13, who is director of the museum at Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., has a new Ohio University colleague. CLARENCE S. BOLEN, '26, editor of the Southern Telephone News, house organ of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. in Atlanta, has recently been appointed a member of the journalism advisory board for the Division of Journalism at Emory University.

While not in uniform, DR. J. A. PLACE, A.M. '15, performed real "war" service as professor of anatomy in the University of Texas School of Medicine at Galveston where he has been for the past 17 years. With a new freshman class enrolling every nine months during the war years, Dr. Place, like instructors in medical schools elsewhere, found the going to be pretty rigorous. His situation was not improved by a physical ailment that has persisted for some time.

During the past summer Mrs. John G. Cook (CARRIE EDITH RICKETTS) returned to the classroom at the State Teachers College, Frostburg, Md., where she had been a member of the faculty for 12 years, to teach some courses in English literature. This fall Mrs. Cook, a resident of Frostburg, was re-elected president of the Hagerstown district of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church.

Mrs. A. F. Hoffman (MARY PARK, 2-yr.), Warren, in making a contribution to the Ohio University Fund, wrote: "If there is any part of the Fund to be used to honor Dr. H. R. Wilson ['96], I should very much like it to be used in that way. . . . We have a daughter, Virginia, now on campus. She was one of the fortunate students in her Freshman year to be allowed to take Sophomore English in the last class Dr. Wilson taught. Only his former students can appreciate how glad I was."

DR. ESTHER M. GREISHEIMER, professor of physiology at Temple University, Philadelphia, and one of Ohio University's most outstanding women graduates, points out with evident satisfaction that her nephew, HARRY E. HAND of Chillicothe, is now a freshman at Ohio U. Three nieces, RUTH HAND, '38, ESTHER JEAN HAND, '38, A.M. '46, and DORETHA JEAN HAND, '46, are all Green and White grads. Miss Esther Jane Hand is an instructor in English at her alma mater this year. Miss Greisheimer possesses two doctorates, a Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago and an M.D. degree from the University of Minnesota. She acquired her Master of Art's degree from Clark University.

Juanita Eleanor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Nelson (FERN HESSE, 2-yr.), Columbus, was married on December 5 to Carl R. Mattes, another Columbus resident.

WALTER A. "TINY" DOWNING and Mrs. Downing (RUTH THOMAS, '18), Circleville, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Joan Louise, to Fred J. Dreiling, Cincinnati, on October 20. Both the bride and groom graduated from Ohio State University in 1945 and were prominent in campus affairs. A horticulturist, Mr. Dreiling is manager of the Banner Orchards, Mt. Airy, N. C.

A recent communication from Mt. Berry, Ga., brings information of interest concerning the former RUTH HAMMOND, 2-yr. The Georgian was seeking the address of Miss Sirouhee Arpee from whom she had taken piano instruction during her undergraduate days at Ohio University. Miss Hammond married Ray M. Pettet in 1921. Mr. Pettet died in 1930 leaving three children besides his widow. In 1942 Mrs. Pettet married Dr. L. E. McAllister, head of the science department of Mt. Berry College. Dr. McAllister is the former husband of Mrs. Verna McKelvey McAllister, '17, who died in 1941.

MARY KERR, principal of Garfield Heights High School for 15 years, has recently requested a transfer to a position as head of the school's guidance and counselling center. It is expected that the board will act favorably upon her request. She has been in the Garfield Heights system since 1923. Miss Kerr is a sister of A. C. "ALEC" KERR, '16, who is located in London, England, as vice president and director of European operations of the Lykes Brothers Steamship Co., Inc. During the war years he was regional director for the United Kingdom and Iceland of the U. S. War Shipping Administration. He also served as a liaison officer for the U. S. Maritime Commission on the London staff of Ambassador John G. Winant.

Ohio University ties have been strengthened for Mrs. Lee Doellman (EMMA MARIE APEL, 2-yr.), lately by the presence on the campus of a daughter, Jeanne, now a sophomore. Mrs. Doellman's husband is division manager of the Beechnut Packing Co. in Lakewood. Jeanne has a sister Betty-Lee, who will soon be ready for college.

1923

C. SPENCER TOCUS, A.B. '23, B.M. '24, and B.S.Ed. '28, and who also holds a master's degree from the University of Southern California, has recently become assistant principal of one of the high schools in St. Louis, Mo. Prior to accepting this position he had given his time exclusively since graduation to the field of music in which he had served as a high school supervisor and as director of music at Stowe Teachers College.

1924

DARRELL HERRON, a teacher in Weequahic High School, Newark, N. J., recently has been elected president of the New Jersey Association of Teachers of English at the annual convention in Atlantic City. The association was host this year to the convention of the National Council of Teachers of English at Atlantic City over the Thanksgiving holidays. Mr. Herron is also editor of the N.T.A. News, a monthly publication of the Newark Teachers Association.

GEORGE F. LAMB, teacher of business training in Roosevelt Junior High School, Hamilton, and a member of the local school system since 1927, is treasurer of the Hamilton Public School Employees Federal Credit Union.

CHRISTINE JOHNSON, 2-yr., head of the music department of the Kanawha County (W. Va.) schools, now on leave of absence for work at New York University, will receive a doctor's degree in music from N.Y.U. at the end of the present term. An accomplished musician, Miss Johnson has been playing piano accompaniments for singers and violinists in New York recitals and recently played in Carnegie Hall. She is also a violinist of considerable ability.

JENNIE PRICE, 2-yr., a teacher and principal of elementary schools in Lowellville for many years, is now housemother at one of the cottages at the Methodist Children's Home in Berea.

Early in December Ohio University's wrestling coach and athletic trainer, THOR OLSON, conducted a two-session clinic on wrestling and athletic training and conditioning at the Toledo YMCA. Arrangements for the clinic were effected by CLAIRE C. "DUCKY" DUNN, '37, M.Ed. '40, now head of the physical education department at Toledo's Waite High School.

Salinas, California, is the place of residence of at least two Ohioans, LEWIS A. TERVEN, JR., and Mrs. Glenn H. Immel (RACHEL SYX, '38). The former is a vegetable packer and shipper in this famous vegetable growing area of California. Mrs. Immel's husband who returned from service in the Philippines this fall, is studying for the California Bar Examination. He had practiced law in Ohio for ten years before entering the Navy. Little Stephan, son of the Immels, is enrolled in a local kindergarten school.

Off the press now is the latest book of RALF C. KIRCHER, Dayton advertising executive. The book, a humorous volume bearing the title "There's a Fly in This Room," was published by New York's Rinehart & Company and is now available at bookstores throughout the country. This is Author Kircher's second book, the first, "Fiddlesticks," having appeared in 1941 under his pen name of Fagin Fogg. Mrs. Kircher, who was VIRGINIA PAUL,

'29, 2-yr., and who is also a writer, is the author of a new juvenile book called "Apples, Buttons, and God Liver Oil," an ABC book for youngsters. Ralf will be remembered by his campus contemporaries as a humorist who, with PAUL L. BURES, '28, produced the "Burgundy and Bologna" column in the Green and White, student semi-weekly. The illustrations in Mr. Kircher's new book were done by Gluyas Williams, well-known illustrator. The book is dedicated to "Ginnie, Christie, and Dud hereinafter known as Mama, Sister, and Junior."

CHARLES W. RAWLINS, M.S. '40, is in his tenth year as an industrial arts instructor in the high school at Cambridge. He taught in his home school at Coalton from the time of graduation until going to Cambridge in 1937.

A friend of Mrs. W. E. Klippert (ANN RIDENOUR), whose husband is superintendent of all of the Goodyear rubber interests in Central America, reports that the Klipperts spend most of their time in Puerto Rico where the children, a son and daughter, ages 4 and 9, respectively, "jabber away merrily in Spanish."

HERBERT E. WOOLWEAVER is in his second year as a coach at Northern High School in Fremont, Mich. Mr. Woolweaver was an athletic coach in Sidney for more than 10 years and went from that city to Lima where he held a coaching position at South High School. Married again after the death of his first wife in 1936, the Michigan coach is the father of a son, 13, twin girls, 11, and another daughter, 2.

DR. NORRIS M. BEASLEY, who was discharged from the Army Medical Corps with the rank of major, has established himself in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., for the private practice of medicine. Dr. and Mrs. Beasley (KATHERINE WALKER, '32K) have two children, Suzanne and Jane.

VERLEE GROETZINGER, an elementary teacher in Leetsdale, Pa., has developed an "extracurricular" activity which seems likely to pay real dividends. As owner and manager of Mari-Lee Crafts, in Leetsdale, Miss Groetzinger has designed and developed several new ideas in the way of entertainment and instruction for children. Easter Fun, an original child's activity envelope for youngsters of four to nine years of age, contains designs printed on colored construction paper, with complete directions on each sheet. The designs are to be colored, cut out, and mounted, and are especially adapted for convalescent children. Christmas Fun and Summer Fun, new gift ideas, are now being sold in gift shops and stationery stores in several states. Rainy Day Fun and Get Well Fun are now being planned for the early future.

After a number of years of association with the Pure Oil Company in various responsible capacities and a period of service in the Navy, THOMAS H. EVANS, JR. has been appointed assistant purchasing agent of the McBee Company of Athens, a widely-known printing and manufacturing concern. Mr. and Mrs. Evans (BETTY

As reported last month, LAWRENCE G. HAUCK is a member of the Associated Press staff in New York City currently assigned as a diplomatic reporter at the United Nations headquarters. Larry's account of the arrival of his new daughter (see Births) is an interesting one. "The stork," he writes, "came racing in, November 2, with a girl, Susan Kernan Hauck, while I was covering a speech in Lake Success by the Russian delegate, Andrei Y. Vishinsky. I got the word in the middle of the session and, given a special car by the United Nations, missed the arrival by only a few minutes. . . . Our first little girl, Linda Kernan Hauck, was born in New York, Jan. 3, 1943, while I was aboard a carrier in the Pacific as a lieutenant commander in the Naval Air Corps."

Those much-respected and not-too-easy-to-get initials, C.P.A. (Certified Public Accountant) now appear after the name of DEVERE L. SHEESLEY who is a partner in the accounting and auditing firm of Harry B. Culley and Company in Erie, Pa.

After 13 years with the Buffalo Evening News during which he was a reporter, financial editor, and news editor, HARRY L. WADDELL resigned his position on October 1 to accept a flattering offer as assistant managing editor of Business Week, a well-known McGraw-Hill publication in New York City. Editor Waddell and his family (see picture on this page) are living temporarily in New Canaan, Conn. Mrs. Waddell is the former ELEANOR HAZELTINE, '32, a sister of FRANK H. HAZELTINE, '29, who is with the Howell Realty Co. in Cincinnati. In the picture the older child, age 7, is Nancy Lee. Carolyn Lee, a 3-year-old, had the grave misfortune to lose a portion of her head as a result of a miscalculation by the photographer. The dog, a family pet, is Tippy.

CLYDE A. VORIS (see picture), with the B. F. Goodrich Co. since 1941, will assume a new position as personnel manager of the company's industrial products plant in Cadillac, Michigan, on January 1. He has completed work for a master's degree in personnel management at Akron University and the degree will be conferred early in 1947. He taught school in Columbus for four years, following which he was industrial coordinator in the trade school at Wadsworth before joining the Goodrich organization where previously he has been manager of apprentice training.

Mrs. Justin E. Jordan (ELIZABETH ONG) is a resident of Indianapolis, Ind., where her husband, a graduate of Ohio State University, is engaged in the practice of veterinary medicine.

After teaching school for eight years GRACE THAYER married a Dr. E. E. Switzer in 1942 and is now living in Andover. Like Dr. Jordan (see above), her husband is a veterinarian.

Among those receiving advanced degrees at the end of the autumn quarter at Ohio State University on December 19 were JAMES A. CHILCOTE and OSCAR H. IBELE, JR., '41, the former, of Kingston, received a Master of Arts degree and was a high school teacher in Logan before war service in the Navv. The latter, who received a Ph.D. degree in political science, has also done graduate work at the University of Wisconsin.

SAMMY LEVINE, publisher of Kegler, a new national magazine devoted to bowling, is doing a sports broadcast on bowling over Cleveland's Radio Station WHK on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday nights on each week.

GERALD B. TUTTLE, who lives in Youngstown, is the Eastern Ohio sales representative of the Allied Oil Company of Cleveland.

One of several persons called by the Ohio Education Association last month to assist in preparing a statement on the teacher scarcity and the need for higher salaries to be presented to the state legislature this spring, S. H. DILLON, M.Ed. '41, superintendent of the Hocking County schools, reported that "there are so few inducements to teach in Hocking County that only two girls in the entire county are now training to be teachers. Supt. Dillon stated that the average salary for elementary teachers in his county is $1,400 and the average for high school teachers, $1,700. These salaries have brought only a very few teachers with bachelor's degrees into the system and only one person on his staff of 103 teachers has a master's degree. During and since the war there has been a 75% turnover in teacher employment in his county.

MILTON A. WHITE, former principal of Central School in Middleport, is now teaching in a junior high school in a community near Rochester, Minn.

MARGARET FLORY, A.M. '38, associated with the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions in New York City, is at the present time visiting mission stations and inspecting work in Guatemala, Central America.

CARL W. ROSS is a geographer, a civilian position, with the U. S. War Department in the Pentagon Building in Washington.

"The Amboy Dukes," a novel written by IRVING R. SHULMAN, an associate in the English department of George Washington University, Washington, D. C., is condensed in the January issue of Book Reader. The novel, scheduled to be published by Doubleday and Co. early in February, is a story of the causes and results of juvenile delinquency in Brooklyn, N. Y. Author Shulman received a master's degree from Columbia University and has done work on a doctorate at both New York University and George Washington University. He has had a number of short stories published during the last ten years, but this is his first novel. With his wife and two daughters, Joan Ann, 3, and Leslie Jane, 4 months, he lives in Mt. Raimier, Md.

Due to a critical teacher shortage on the high school staff BEATRICE BARBER, an elementary teacher in Nelsonville, is substituting in the secondary school during the current year. She is a sister of Mildred Barber, a secretary and accountant in the Office of the Treasurer at Ohio University.

EDWIN B. RALL, JR. (see Births), now out of the Army, is living in Jackson, Mich., where he is a sales representative of the Graybar Electric Co., Inc., in Jackson, Eaton, and Calhoun Counties. "Ted" married a Miss Helen June Carmichael of Everett, Wash., early in 1945 shortly after returning from three years of service as an artillery officer in the Aleutians and the Philippines.

In November Mrs. Charles F. Irwin (MARJORIE ENRICK), of Dayton, with her two children, Anne Elizabeth, 4, and Charles Fayette, III, 2, took her mother by automobile to Florida for the winter season. During a three-week visit in the southern state Mrs. Irwin visited The Tourist Church in Daytona Beach where the REV. DR. DON D. TULLIS is pastor (see Class of 1898 Notes). "I especially enjoyed meeting him," Mrs. Irwin writes, "as it was Dr. Tullis who gave the baccalaureate address at my commencement in 1939."

WALTER R. DAVIS, who served with the Army Transport Command and was discharged with the rank of lieutenant colonel, last month was elected vice president of the newly-organized Athens County Reserve Officers' Association. Other officers are (Col.) W. J. Smith, president; (CAPT.) RICHARD P. BANKS, '43, secretary; and (CAPT.) FRANCIS B. FULLER, '38, treasurer. Mr. Davis is associated with his father-in-law, W. H. LOGAN, '17x, in the management of Logan's Book Store. Dr. Smith is associate professor of history at Ohio University, while the other two officers, like Davis, are local business men.

DR. WILLIAM H. JERIC is Pomeroy's newest physician, offices having been opened recently at 113½ E. Main St. A graduate of the Western Reserve University Medical School, Dr. Jeric saw service with the Navy in the early actions of the Southwest Pacific. He was associated for a brief period with the Ohio University Health Service early last year. Dr. Jeric married ZELDA HAWK shortly before both he and his wife graduated as members of the Class of 1939. The Jerics have two children, Billy, 4, and Bruce, 18 months.

RUSSELL E. BAYLIFF, A.M., former Wesley Foundation minister at the First Methodist Church in Athens and, later, minister of churches of his denomination in Delaware, is now assistant professor of sociology on the faculty of Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware. Prof.

EMDEN C. SCHULZE, A.M. '42, believes himself to be perhaps the only labor market analyst in the city of Cleveland where there are well over half a million workers. It is Analyst Schulze's job to determine the structure of the Cleveland labor market and the character of the labor supply. Once his information is collected and analyzed it is used as a basis for intelligent action by workers, employers, and the community. "Thinking back," he writes, "to the days when I listened to Dr. Gubitz' lecture on economics, I never thought I would turn out to be a crystal ball gazer."

Herbert H. Stuckney, a veteran of the ETO, is in his second year in the Stanford University Law School. If all goes well he will complete his work in June, 1948. His wife, PHYLLIS JACOBS, '43x, a former Newport News, Va. girl, is also attending Stanford and will graduate next June. She is preparing for social service work. The Stuckneys are at present living in Menlo Park, Calif.

ERLE BRIDGEMAN, JR., who recently passed the state bar examinations with the highest grades of any participant, became a member of the Woolley and Rowland law firm in Athens on January 1.

LIEUT. WILLIAM ROSE, an AAF bombardier instructor, is rounding out 18 months as a patient in various Army hospitals, currently at Brooke General Hospital, Ft. Sam Houston, Texas. "I have now," reports Bill, "advanced to the stage of walking with only a short leg brace for support. I may be out in a few more months if a pair of threatened operations fail to materialize." The exact nature and cause of Lieut. Rose's injuries are not known to the editor.

LT. (JG) THOMAS H. REDDING, a Navy medical officer aboard the U.S.S. Mispillion based at Shanghai, China, sent clever Christmas greetings to the Alumni Secretary from his post in the Orient.

On inactive duty following service as chief of the Research Division of the Quartermaster Board at Camp Lee, Va., LIEUT. STEPHEN H. FULLER has re-enrolled in the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration to complete work, on January 29, for a master's degree. He received a degree in industrial administration from Harvard University in 1943. During the last six months of his Army service Lieutenant Fuller covered more than 36,000 miles by air travel in a survey of quartermaster depots in the Pacific from New Guinea to Japan.

HENRY A. FOX graduated from the University of Southern California last year and on October 1 began the practice of law in association with Cohen and Fulop, a prominent legal firm located at 215 West Fifth Street in Los Angeles.

KARL H. SCHMIDT, JR., a Marine Corps veteran and former life insurance salesman, is now in business for himself in his home town of Akron as an agent of the National Life Insurance Co. While neither authorized nor paid to do so, the Alumni Secretary hazards a guess that Karl will be glad to call upon any Ohioan in his city who can use some high grade insurance protection.

RICHARD O. LINKI and Mrs. Linke, whose marriage is reported on page 18, were participants in a double wedding ceremony on October 12. Mrs. Linke's twin sister, Marilynn, and Mr. Linke's close friend, Joseph Guca of Hartford, Conn., were the other "high contracting parties." As indicated elsewhere, Dick is on the staff of the Newell-Emmett advertising agency which handles the publicity for the Chesterfield "Supper Club" radio program. One of Dick's assignments is to work closely with the stars of the radio show, Perry Como and Jo Stafford. The editor of The Alumnae has recently received a picture of the three taken at the NBC studio in New York City during a going-away party for Miss Stafford who will hereafter be doing her portion of the Supper Club program from Hollywood.

JOHN A. STORIS is president and general manager of Manufacturers' Machine Shop, Inc., tool and dye manufacturers, in Cleveland. Mr. Storis and his wife have three children, the youngest, Susan, born late this summer.

whose marriage was announced in the December ALUMNUS, were campus visitors during the Christmas holidays. AILEEN and GERALDINE DAVIES, twin sisters of the bride and Mrs. Williams' bridal attendants are seniors in Ohio University, the latter now at Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, where she is completing work in medical technology under an arrangement between the university and the hospital. "Jerry" was recently elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa. The Williamses are living in Cleveland where the husband is a registration officer with the Veterans Administration and the wife is working in the office of the National Housing Agency.

WESLEY MCGOWAN and Mrs. McGowan (DOROTHY PAINTER, '41) are residents of Madison, N. J. Mr. McGowan has a position in the New York office of the Permut Company, manufacturers of water conditioning equipment.

After going "inactive" early last year, FIRST LIEUT. JACK E. MCGEE returned to active duty in September as detachment commander of the 20th Medical Laboratory at Ft. Lewis, Wash. In November, however, he received orders to report to Manila for duty with the Philippine Scouts. Mrs. McGee (ESTHER STINER, '41) and their small daughter, Patricia Ann, have now returned to Mrs. McGee's home in Lakewood.

ROBERT M. WREN will be giving up his work as an instructor and assistant coach in Athens High School next month to head south with the St. Louis Browns, where he will have a trial with this American League team. As a second baseman with the Toledo Mudhens last year, Wren captured fielding honors among the American Association second sackers with a .975 mark. He accepted 474 chances and made only 12 errors during the season.

NANCY JONES sailed early in December for a second overseas assignment with the American Red Cross, this time in the Far Eastern Theater of Operations. During the war she worked with the A.R.C. in the European Theater as a staff assistant. Sailing at the same time was JOAN SEIDMAN, '45X. This is Miss Seidman's first overseas assignment with the Red Cross. She and Miss Jones are among the 2800 American Red Cross workers still serving U. S. Troops abroad.

WILLIAM SCHIVLEY, who was discharged from naval service last July as a lieutenant (jg), is now chief of the antennae branch of Aircraft Radiation Laboratory at Wright Field. One of his last duties before coming back from the Pacific was to assist in the installation of certain technical equipment in ships used in the Bikini atom bomb tests.

Enroll in Ohio University's Physical Welfare
Division . . . today

A major in physical education prepares men and women students for many gainful occupations, including—

- Physical Education Teachers
- Recreational Leaders
- Playground Directors
- Camp Counselors
- Health Teachers
- Athletic Coaches

A curriculum also is offered which fits men and women for work in physical rehabilitation, such as positions in connection with hospitals and sanatoria, and for recreational jobs with industrial concerns and municipalities.

The Division of Physical Welfare offers an extensive program of intramural sports and sponsors a recreational program. Instruction is given to interested groups in extra-curricular classes in the activities desired, thereby providing an opportunity for the less proficient students to develop skills and master game techniques.
